STATE OF WISCONSIN.

Thanksgiving Proclamation

BY THE GOVERNOR.

In accordance with the appropriate custom of setting apart a day for the giving of thanks for the prosperity of the year, and in conformity with the proclamation of the President of the United States, I, Jerome M. Dorn, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, hereby designate Thursday, the 25th day of November, instant, as a day of thanksgiving for the people of the State of Wisconsin, and I command their grateful and devout observance thereof, in public and in private, in ways befitting a people thankful for the many blessings of a kind Providence. In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Wisconsin to be affixed. Done at the city of Madison, this 12th day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four.

By the Governor: J. M. RUSK.

ERNST G. TIMMEL, Secretary of State.

There are more democrats now "in the hands of their friends" than ever before known in the country.

Some one will have to introduce the coming administration to the civil service law. They are total strangers.

Words for Mr. Curtis's ear, from the Atlanta Constitution: "The people of the union have voted for a change, the civil service commissioners to the contrary notwithstanding."

Will the gentleman who first mentioned Cleveland for the presidency please send his name and address to this office. We want to send him a patent leather pad. We think it will cure him.

The Rev. Dr. Burchard should apply for the chaplaincy of the Forty-ninth congress. For conscience sake, the democrats couldn't afford to refuse him the position.

The democrats will have a chance to dress up better than usual this winter. They need the clothes, and their bets come in good play after twenty-four years of patient waiting.

The canvassing board of the state of New York has finished its work, and Cleveland's plurality is 1,077. This ends the most remarkable presidential canvass ever known in the history of American politics.

It may be that after the new administration gets to running there will be many democrats who will feel like singing the hymn, beginning:

"Nietzsche could dream of heaven."

It is very evident that 97,000 offices will not satisfy the hunger of our friends, the democrats.

The tool-killer seems to have suspended business, for we notice that Kersten, the Oklacon democrat, declares that Cleveland's election "rings out Lincoln as a traitor and rings in Jeff Davis as a patriot;" and he further announces that "two of the south propose to make the name of Lincoln and the birchings a stench in the nostrils of mankind."

Official returns have been received at Madison, for all the counties in this state but Chippewa, on which the unofficial returns are all. Blaine has a plurality of 14,700, and Governor Rank of 19,423. The vote for the latter is the largest ever polled for any candidate in the state, being about 162,000. Garfield polled 14,998. Governor Rank has a majority over all candidates of over 5,000. Secretary of State Timmels has a plurality of 18,915; State Treasurer McFetridge, 15,103; St. John's vote is not far from 7,800; Hastings, prohibition candidate for governor, 8,738. In 1881 Kenosha received 13,225 prohibition votes for governor. Butler's vote is about 4,075; Utley, greenback candidate for governor, 4,433, or 2,500 less than Allis received in 1881. The full vote is: Blaine, 151,020; Cleveland, 140,274; St. John, 7,679; Butler, 4,705.

MAKING A CABINET.

Taking it for granted that Mr. Cleveland doesn't know anything of public affairs and of public men, some of his democratic friends have undertaken the task of making cabinets for him. A cabinet will be quite an important piece of furniture in the white house after the 4th of March next, because upon the cabinet will depend the success or failure of the incoming administration. The most prominent cabinet you suggested, and the one that will contain considerable ability, is that just put up by Mr. Henry Watterson, of the Courier-Journal. It attracts a good deal of attention because there are some pretty bright and conspicuous men in it:

Secretary of State—Allen J. Thurman, Ohio. Secretary of the Treasury—William Dornhermer, New York.

Secretary of War—George B. McClellan, Pennsylvania.

Secretary of the Interior—John Jones, Iowa.

Promoted General—Eppa Hunton, Virginia. Attorney General—Josephine, Michigan, Indiana.

The advantage of this cabinet will be seen at a glance. It is made up of all sorts of number ex parte independent Thurman is a greenback-moss back democrat. Dornhermer used to be a Democrat, but he is not, body and soul, a democrat of the Democrats. General McClellan will suit all sorts of democrats north and south, because his slow movements and superb good nature never permitted him to do the enemy any harm while he was in command of the armies. Randall is a protection democrat, and killed the Morrison bill with forty-one democrats. Jones made a faithful officer in the confederate army, and is now in the senate. Hunton likewise, served well in the confederate army, and has since been in congress. He will be seen that our friend Colonel William F. Vilas stands out in the cold.

Probably for the reason that he did not leave Wisconsin over to Cleveland as per agreement.

QUOTE AN EXAMPLE.

The late election has brought to light the singular fact that the political value of a white man in Ohio and New Jersey and Wisconsin may be included—in less than half the political value of a white man in some of the southern states, in Mississippi and Alabama, for instance.

To show how this result is arrived at, the New York Tribune produces some figures which have a curiosity about them. To illustrate: Mississippi has cast this year 321,321 votes, elects seven members of congress, and therefore 45,186 votes each member of congress.

Ohio has cast this year 784,801 votes, elects twenty-one members of congress, and has therefore cast 37,371 votes for each member of congress. New Jersey has cast this year 260,792 votes and elects seven members of congress, and has therefore cast 37,256 votes for each member of congress.

The total summing up: The two southern states cast 271,100 votes for fifteen members, an average of 18,341 votes for each member of congress. The two northern states have cast 1,045,503 votes for twenty-eight members, and the average has therefore been 37,343 for each member of congress.

These facts and figures are given to show the blessings of what they call a "white man's government" in the south, over which there is so much rejoicing in the land where slavery and cotton reigned as king so many years.

DON'T.

Just at this time there are thousands of young democrats who cherish the hope that the change in the administration will give them a good opportunity to get into office. There is something about a government office that fascinates. The responsibility is usually light, the hours of daily service comparatively short, while the salaries are generally very seducing. There is a strong temptation for young men to throw aside their business and seek such public positions, but the advice of Punch to the young people who were about to get married, is good in this case—Don't!

With so many thousands of juicy slices of official patronage to be distributed among democrats, it is no wonder that young democrats feel like quitting the ordinary humdrum, plodding life of industry and frugality, and go into politics where there is prominence, easy work and good pay—but—Don't.

It is a nice thing, apparently, to run off to Washington, which many suppose is the bane of bliss—and get a snug, warm berth in some of the departments at fourteen or sixteen hundred a year—but—Don't! For a year, or the like, it may seem a paradise, but such days of genteel poverty have their bitterness, their uncertainties, their dreards, their constant wavering between hope and fear, and if you think it would be a good thing to quit home and an independent business, and become a victim of office spoils, we say, Don't!

There is room in business world for every young man of sober mind and of honest industry, and room to do fairly well, in which a home can be built, a comfortable independence secured, at least so far as office hunting is concerned and to abandon such a life and enter politics because it is gaudy, is moral death, and we say, Don't!

There is not a clerk in the departments at Washington, or in the civil service in other cities, but has become nothing but a trembling dependent. Every one of them has become a victim of the ambition to draw his sustenance from the government; and if you should ask any of them if you should follow their example, every one will say, Don't! There is a disappointment in seeking federal offices. Not one in ten can get what he wants, and not one in five hundred of those who secure government positions over rise above the abject position of a dependent. Don't!

Once, not many years ago, words in tone and spirit, something like these, we addressed to young republicans seeking office. Now they are addressed to young democrats who may be tempted to enter the unsatisfying field of political meedants. Don't.

THE CHICAGO FRAUD.

There is no doubt that the democrats went deliberately to work to cheat Mr. Lincoln out of his election to the Illinois senate from the Sixth district, which is located in Chicago. Rudolph Brand was the democratic candidate, and without his election the legislature, on a joint ballot, would stand evenly divided. To change this, and give Mr. Brand the election would secure a democratic senator in place of John A. Logan, whose term expires on the 4th of next March. The fraud is an glaring that the Chicago News which did so much vigorous work for the cause of Cleveland in the late campaign, openly denounces it in the following language:

"The fraud is so patent that Mr. Brand, if he be an honorable man, will refuse to take the seat in the state senate to which it elects him. The poll-booth show cases, and every circumstance indicates the perpetration of a daring fraud. If the democrats are equally daring and unscrupulous in profiting by its results, it will give them a majority of one in the state senate, and Mr. Brand's vote would give them the control in the organization of the senate and the appointment of the very committee to which his own fraudulent case would be submitted. With a majority of one in the senate, the democrats would have a majority of two in joint convention. Thus means the selection of a democrat to succeed

General Logan in the United States senate. Of this, however, the democrats may take notice. Their party has come into power in Washington. It controls the house of representatives. The election of a democratic senator from Illinois would not give it a majority in the senate. He would go there the receiver of a stolen honor. By his presence there Illinois would be disrespected. The stigma of fraud would forever attach to him and would be powerfully used against his party in future campaigns. There would be no escape from it. No political party can afford to profit by such a plain, unblushing, palpable fraud."

man, who so fondly outraged and murdered the two little daughters of John McLaughlin, in August last, was hung Friday at 1 p.m. The murderer slept well throughout the morning, and a hearty breakfast. He appeared cool and unconcerned throughout the trial, and ate a hearty breakfast. He appeared cool and unconcerned throughout the trial, and a hearty breakfast. He was conducted to the scaffold, seated in a sort of natural amphitheater about a mile from town. One hundred deputy marshals made a way through the vast throng for the condemned man, and he walked to the scaffold with an indifferent swagger. He weakened somewhat during the spiritual reading and intoned a brief invocation. The trap was sprung and the murderer died with scarcely a struggle. It is estimated that 200 people witnessed the execution, many coming a distance of five miles.

Weat Try This Experiment Again.

WENDELL, Mass., Nov. 22.—While a gang of fifty men were engaged in blasting a passage for water pipes, a quantity of Atlas powder, which had frozen and been placed in a clay-lined kettle over a fire to thaw, exploded, shaking the ground and houses for hundreds of feet around. Matthew Hart, who was standing twenty feet away, was instantly killed, the top of his head being blown off. Andrew Wickham and John Madigan were severely injured. A number of men standing within twenty feet of the fire were killed. In the intense heat and blinding smoke, many windows and glass were broken. In another house, 200 feet away, windows were broken and pictures thrown down from the wall. At Lake View, more than a mile away, the cottages were disturbed as though by an earthquake.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—The existence of a conspiracy and accident occurred here Thursday night by which several young men were severely injured. One has died. It was an outcome of an attempt which has been the subject of a great deal of gossip about here.

Some days ago a disturbance arose between two families living close together. The husbands and wives of both families separated. On Friday, Nov. 14, the quarrel was made up and matters went on as before. A few young men got together and chose Saturday evening to give the parties a salute. They fired a cannon four times and left the scene. They adjourned until Saturday night. There met again and three volleys were fired.

They were reloading for the fourth shot when the powder in the cannon became ignited. A terrific explosion followed, and when the smoke had cleared away a sickening sight was revealed. Ellsworth Kirk, who had been pounding the wadding in the gun, lay with his eyes blown out and the blood oozing from his face. He was alive, but insensible. Shortly afterwards, Al Clark and Elijah Boston were burned about the face and neck. They fled a cannon four times and left the scene. They adjourned until Saturday night. There met again and three volleys were fired.

Messrs. Metcalf & Delong are covering the roof of their new ware-house with tin. It is a good way to avoid frost.

J. H. Burton (Will Ebbets) and company will appear at the opera house Wednesday and Thursday evenings, November 26th and 27th.

Remember the auction sale of clothing, hats, caps, and gents' furnishing goods commences at the star clothing house on Monday next.

Prof. Gilhooley is meeting with very flattering success in establishing a singing class in this city. Particulars can be obtained of Mr. J. S. Clark, at his cigar store opposite the postoffice.

The masons have commenced laying brick on the Jeffries block, at the west end of Milwaukee street bridge, and Mr. Ed. Rutherford says, weather permitting he will have the walls completed in three weeks.

Many leading democrats are just now wearing very substantial suits, all at the expense of their republican friends. It has been a good many years since the democrat here had an opportunity to "dress up" so cheaply.

Several members of the Beloit bicyclic club wheeled themselves into the music hall last evening to attend the Ida Siddeon mastodon entertainment. They took front seats, and appeared to be as well pleased with the performance as the city boys.

Court Street church gave a sociable last evening at the home of the pastor, Rev. G. B. Wilcox, on High street, first ward. The house was well filled and the evening pleasantly spent in social chat. Coffee and cake was served and the Ladies' Aid society of the church liberally replenished.

Miss Sadie Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Johnson, formerly of this city, now residing in Kansas City, Missouri, will be married on Monday evening, December 6th, at the latter place, to Mr. Homer A. Dunn. Their many friends in Janesville will extend hearty congratulations.

The arrangements are all completed for the annual party of Besene Hook and Ladder company, which takes place in the Rules armory on Wednesday evening of next week. The committee has arranged everything for the comfort and pleasure of their guests, and it will not be the fault of the managers if all do not pronounced it one of the most pleasant and gay gatherings of the season.

Trinity church, on Jackson street, comes out as bright and clean as a new silver dollar. The belfry and cupola have been thoroughly overhauled, new copper added to the corners, and a fresh coat of paint throughout, causing the old landmarks to put on a holiday appearance. With a new rector in the pulpit and a substantial element in the pews, this church bids fair to weather the new administration successfully.

Mr. George Sykes, of the town of Janesville, left at the Gazette office this morning a pair of twin pumpkins. They are the same size, height and color, and have grown side by side on the same stem until they are as firmly attached to each other as the Siamese twins. The friendship of pumpkins is remarkable, and is only surpassed by the quality which they develop when well baked in an old fashioned pie.

Mr. George Brown, of this city, a brakeman on the Chicago and Northwestern railway, met with an accident last evening at Jefferson Junction, by which he had his left arm badly crushed. He was coupling cars at the time, and accidentally stepped into a cattle guard, when the cars caught his arm, and was completely destroyed. The shed contained about $700 worth of tobacco, hinging, and a re-sweating machine, which was being experimented with, kerosene oil being used to heat the machine. It is supposed that the fire originated from this machine. He is now at the Holt house, near the depot. At least accounts the doctor had not amputated the arm.

Mrs. George Benway, residing on East Milwaukee street, met with a very severe and painful accident last evening by which she dislocated her shoulder. The lady stepped into the drug store of Messrs. Palmer & Stevens, to make a purchase, and in order to examine some goods, stepped behind the counter at the rear end of the store, close to an open trap or cellar door. While looking at the goods she was about to purchase, she took a step backwards, and fell onto the cellar stairs, with the result. She was taken to her home on East Milwaukee street, and properly cured for, and we understand is resting quite comfortably to-day.

Last evening Marshal Hogan was compelled to take a drunken woman to the county jail in order to get her off the public streets, and in doing so called to his assistance a couple of citizens, and took the woman from West Milwaukee to one of the back streets to avoid attracting public attention. In doing this some passers by noticed the party, and not recognizing the marshal, concluded it was a party of "roughs" attempting "to force the woman to accompany them." True, the drunken woman made several desperate attempts to free herself from the powerful grasp of the city marshal, but she was finally landed in the county jail.

The place to buy your underclothing and gloves and mittens at Pitcher & Ziegler's.

The rough element conjecture of our morning contemporary appears to be all on paper, as none of it is allowed on the street corners, and our city is very free from such disreputable classes. Nevertheless the circumstance helped to make an item, and perhaps an explanation will follow.

Deacon Wm. Monroe, the champion rabbit slayer of Rock county, walked into our office this afternoon with the air of self-pride and confidence of a Cleveland democrat, and without any ceremony laid down the ears and scalp of a Rock county rabbit, with the remark—"This, sir, is the scalp of a Rock county rabbit, which weighed thirteen pounds, seven and a half ounces. I killed it, and can produce affidavits as to the correctness of the weight. Now, sir, don't you let these Rasine rabbit hunters get away with you on rabbits. If they beat that weight I will go out in the Hanover marsh and look around for another big one. You just hang them ears up for sample, don't let me say Racine county man take 'em for the ears of a mule."

We feel certain the other day, when we alluded to the ten pound rabbit killed in Racine, that we would only have to call the deer's attention to it, to have him produce one over-reaching that weight.

J. H. Burton (Will Ebbets) and company will appear at the opera house Wednesday and Thursday evenings, November 26th and 27th.
